

I grew up in a Christian family and was part of church life. God put a lot of trials in my family life and I grew up angry, bitter, confused, and depressed. Rather than looking to the One who created me for joy, I looked to myself and it wasn't to be found. Around the age of 14, I expressed this frustration to God. I didn't understand how a God who supposedly created, loved, had good purpose and will for His people would put me in a family like the one I grew up in.

He quickly showed me His love in creating me, in having a good purpose for His glory, and my need for redemption. He showed me the most beautiful, deep, and satisfying love through purposing His Son to pay the price for my sin to reconcile me to Himself. After repenting, I dedicated my life to serving Him however He saw fit. Shortly after, He called me to be a missionary. I was baptized in January 2003.

Since then, He has continued to show me grace in patiently teaching me and revealing Himself to me through His word and mature Christians He has placed in my life. He daily shows me my sin nature and how much greater His grace is! I am blessed to be able to study His Word and make His name known, for His glory, throughout the nations!
